Types of data processed

Anonymous navigation data

The computer systems and software procedures used to operate this website acquire, during their normal operation, some personal data whose transmission is implicit in the use of Internet communication protocols. Such information is not collected to be associated with identified interested parties, but by their very nature it might, through processing and association with data held by third parties, make it possible to identify the users.

This category of data includes IP addresses or domain names of the computers used by users connecting to the site, the addresses in the Uniform Resource Identifier (URI) notation of the requested resources, the time of the request, the method used to submit the request to the server, the size of the file obtained in response, the numerical code indicating the status of the response given by the server (successful, error, etc.) and other parameters relating to the operating system and the user's computer environment.

These data are used for the sole purpose of obtaining anonymous statistical information on the use of the site and to check its proper operation. The data could be used to ascertain responsibility in the event of computer crimes against the site.

Data provided voluntarily by the user

The voluntary, explicit and facultative submittal of e-mails to the addresses indicated on this site implies the subsequent acquisition of the sender's address, necessary to reply to requests, as well as of any other personal data included therein.

Cookies

A cookie is a small text file that is sent to the user's computer when visiting a website for the first time. The file contains elements that enable the unique identification of the user's computer.
